

Dear Colleagues,

The AOS Education Committee has identified chronic ear disease as a topic of interest to the membership for a panel at our 2020 COSM meeting. In the interest of getting diverse participation and the best possible cases, we are putting out this call to AOS members and others who have applied to give presentations at our previous meetings. We ask that interested individuals submit a brief synopsis of a chronic ear case for discussion along with a brief biography indicating a body of experience and/or publications that would allow us to evaluate the insights that the participant might bring to the panel. Cases should highlight current controversies in the etiology, diagnosis, management, or rehabilitation of chronic ear disease. Private practice as well as academic otologists are encouraged to apply. The Program Committee will review and select 4-5 panelists and a moderator from the applicants.

Please submit your entries as a single PDF form, maximum two pages, by Dec 2, 2019, to Kristen Bordignon, AOS Administrator, at administrator@americanotologicalsociety.org

Thank you, and we look forward to a fun and educational panel!

Sincerely,

John Carey, MD
President

Marlan Hansen, MD
Education Director
